Organizational history:

Direction Center was a nonprofit organization that provided training, consulting and research services to West Michigan nonprofits to strengthen and support their operations, board governance and leadership capacities. Direction Center was incorporated in February 1991 with founding support from The Grand Rapids Foundation [Grand Rapids Community Foundation], Grand Valley State University and Heart of West Michigan United Way. These three organizations continued as partners of Direction Center, along with the Frey Foundation, Herman Miller, Inc., The Wege Foundation and Western Michigan University. Direction Center delivered its services, in large part, through the use of professionals who volunteered their time, as well as through university faculty and student support. The W.K. Kellogg Foundation also provided substantial financial start-up support of Direction Center.

Direction Center received approximately 1/3 of its funding from its institutional partners, 1/3 from its own fees for services, and the remaining 1/3 from a variety of sources such as corporate underwriting of trainings and special events, sales of training products and grant revenue. An essential aspect of Direction Center's mission was the provision of low-cost services so that small to moderate-sized nonprofits had equitable access to quality professional management resources.

Direction Center completed its mission of providing resources for nonprofit organizations and is no longer in existence. It closed its doors in 1999.
